

Diversity Course Form

Department of Counseling and Psychological Services

Course Number: PERS 2001

Credit Hours: 3

Instructor(s): Tamba-Kuii Bailey

Course Level: Undergraduate

Prerequisites: None

Course Description: PERS 2001 addresses career development and life planning issues. However, the course enriches students' career and life planning based on an understanding of how culture influences vocational behavior (e.g., the educational and vocational experience of various cultural groups within the U.S. as well as different parts of the world, globalization of industry and economy and its effect on people's careers, politics and wars and their impact on vocational development).

Course Offerings: Fall